

Home News You Can Use...

.... From Judy Gifford and Roger Eichner

You are invited to another Home Seminar series offered during the month of July, on Thursday evenings, July 1, 15, and 29th in the Hampton Library.

These informative sessions are for anyone who owns a home or not.

Topics will include...

- Ideas and products related to energy savings...windows, doors, insulation, caulk and sealants. Learn from the experts how to prepare for winter, and take advantage of a tax credit on many of these items for a double savings.
- Fall plantings and landscape concerns as autumn approaches. Do you have to prepare your yard for winter....what bulbs can be planted and do you fertilize, and what products are effective and affordable?
- Credit...just what is a credit score? How is it affected by your spending? How it can be improved? Learn how it is computed and why it is so crucial to your financial health.

For specifics on what topics will be offered what night, please call the library (412 684-1068) or one of us. These informal sessions will begin by 7 and end by 8 as the Community Center closes at 8 during the summer.
